

CLAIM OR CLAIMS

I claim:

A firelog tray for supporting a single burning firelog and collecting the ashes produced by said burning firelog , comprising:

a disk shaped imperforate metal base curved circularly with the front and back edges of said metal base bent to form handles;

four legs for supporting said base in a position whereby the back edge of said base is approximately twice as high from the ground as the front edge of said base;

parallel rows of metal pegs attached to said base for supporting said firelog during combustion.